

“Vibrations Parties” offers opportunity for you...

You have expressed an interest in becoming a Vibrations Parties Distributor. There are many reasons that may have attracted you. It may be the unique service that we provide, the flexibility of owning your own business, traveling to places like Las Vegas, Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc, or the enormous profit potential. Will you make this investment that has changed many other women's life?

Here are some common concerns to help you make your decision.

How will I get parties booked?

There is a high demand to purchase these products in the home verses a store. Because the parties are educational and fun we don't need booking scams such as merit systems or booking requirements to receive credit. The training that you will receive teaches easy marketing techniques to bring business your way. Due to few current consultants there are many women who are searching for a distributor without one in her area. Our clientele ranges in every income bracket. How often you work is up to you.

Do I have time to run this business?

You may currently work or have a family. Owning this business allows you more time since it is a part time venture. You have the flexibility to work around your busy schedule. We have consultants who have gotten out of the “rat race” and rely solely on their party business and we have women who do their party business in conjunction with another career. We don't have high sales requirements so the choice of how much you work is up to you.

Are the paperwork and taxes complicated?

You will make your money from the customers the night of the party, this way you don't need to submit any paperwork to our company or have to wait for a check from our company. Financially, owning a business can help you tremendously with deductions and business expenses on your taxes. Your sponsor will provide any necessary information on how to manage your business.

Could I handle public speaking?

The product sells itself, so sales don't depend on your presentation alone. Women will admire and respect you for speaking about intimacy. We are so educational and professional that women constantly thank us for what we do. Nervousness goes away with the positive reaction of your customers.

What will people think of how I make my living?

Vibrations Parties consultants are highly respected for being professional businesswomen. We have been commended for providing education to enhance relationships. We are proud to provide a service that helps women from their bedroom to their bank account.
